Defending your interests when the unexpected happens.

Health and safety

Health and safety is a massive issue for employers in this day and age.

If something were to happen, then you know where to turn:
Davis Blank Furniss.

Our health and safety solicitors can represent you if you're prosecuted by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) in the Crown or Magistrates Court and make sure you have the strongest possible case.

We can also jump to your aid if an employee should have an accident at work, making sure everything is handled appropriately, including taking witness statements, liaising with the police, attending police station interviews and attending interviews with the HSE.

Quick thinking from the outset is one of our strengths, so make sure you get in touch as soon as an issue arises.
